THE EVENING CRITIC.

The monthly meeting of the Washington City Bible Society was held last evening, President Pitzer in the chair and J. V. A. President Pitzer in the chair and J. V. A. Shields, secretary. The resignation of Mr. J. J. Darlington was accepted, and the following committee appointed to report names to fill vacancies existing on the board: Messrs. Ballantyne, Sibley and Shields. Mr. W. J. Sibley, of Foundry Church, turned over to the treasurer $107.32, the proceeds of a bequest to the society by the late Edward Owen. The report of the treasurer showed that the receipts from all sources during the past month amounted to $155.71, and expenses, $40.09; leaving a balance on hand of $115.62. A resolution was adopted instructing the treasurer to forward $225 to the American Bible Society in New York city as a contribution. A forward $225 to the American Bible Society brown in New York city as a contribution. A grant of twenty-five Bibles and fifty Testaments was made to the Sunday-school of Ebenezer M. E. Church, and ten Testaments per week during November to John Whiteford for distribution among the prisoners in the jail and work-house. Mr. Suell, agent of the society, reported that he had visited 112 families, supplied fifteen with the Bible, and sold eight Bibles and the cight Testaments. eight Testaments.

Conl Prices for November. The committees of the Lehigh and Schuylkill Coal Exchanges have agreed not to make any advance in the prices of coal for the line and city and harbor trade for the mouth of November. A slight change will be made in Eastern Frices, as red-ash egg coal at Port Richmond will be advanced 20 cents to $3.90; do. stove, 15 cents to $4.10, and Lorberry stove, 15 cents to $4.50. The same relative changes will be made at Elizabethport.

Lewis Oliver's Death.

An inquest was held yesterday afternoon over the body of Lewis Oliver, the man found dead in Shaw's restaurant, in East Washington, Sunday night. The jury returned a verdict that descased died from congestion of the lungs and stomach, superinduced by excessive drinking. The jury censures the keeper of the restaurant, and charges him with gross neglect in not caring properly for the deceased and notifying the authorities of his condition.

The Boys of Boyhood Days. [Addressed to Hon. Horace P. Biddle, of Intana, upon receiving his book, entitled "American Boyhood,"] can Boyhood.")

Thanks for thy gift, its homelike lore
Hath stirred my soul with magic spell;
Hath swept the curtain from the past,
Revealing scenes where mem'ries dwell.
My eyes have never seen thy face,
But somehow, by some occult art,
Thy form is mingling with the throng
Familiar once to eyes and heart.

I see thee, but thy face hath ta'en
The look of one beloved then,
With whom in those clystan days
I wandered in the scenes thy pen
Hath wrought anew. No thought of wrong
Came to me as his arm was placed,
With honest, gentle, rev'rent touch,
Love's matchless girdle, 'round my waist.

Ah! boys in those days were not like
The knowing ones that succring stand
In these degen rate modern days
On every corner in the land.
To those dear boys of olden times
Was manhood proven real and just,
Perfected fully when they held
A woman's weal their sacred trust.

What endless yards of viewless tape
We measured then and cut it, too,
At every yard with kisses twain,
The only outs our childhood knew.
No fear of after breeding ill
Made e'en the gentlest maiden shrink
To sip the cup of Joy made sweet
By other lips upon its brink.

Those childish days, alas f are lost
Within the beauteons, fading past;
But in thy pictures all may find
The charm in glances backward cast.
Twill spread a roseate tinted hue
O'er homely scenes a heavenly glow
Like moonbeans from the depths of night
To light the dimning long ago.

THE RACE MEETING.

resterday about fifty of the horses at the track were exercised upon it, and though it was very soft the mud was so thin that they lifted their feet with ease, and dashed over the course in fine style, stirring up, how-ever, a perfect whirlwind of the yellow Maryland mud.

Training School for Nurses.

Toner, president; Dr. J. C. Welling and Prof. J. S. Beale.

President Toner referred to the work of the society, and said that he thought he saw in the future a prospect of the nurses of the school having a suitable home in the projected National Garfield Memorial Hospital. He also paid a glowing tribute to the famous nurse, Florence Nightingale, and gave an interesting account of his meeting with her in London during the past summer. He described her appearance in the following language: "Florence Nightingale, though of English parentage, was born in Florence, Italy, in 1820, and is therefore sixty-one years of age, but she looked not a day older than forty-six. Her features are regular, her face smooth and unwrinkled, and she has large brown eyes and dark brown hair, without any admixture of gray. She reclined on a lounge, being unable to use her lower limbs on account of disease contracted during the Crimean war." Miss Nightingale was very much interested in the Washington school, and seemed surprised that it should have been so successful without the aid of endowments and Government appropriations.

The first regular lecture of the course will be delivered by Dr. Murphy, next Friday ovening, at Lemman building, 1425 New York avenue.

The Washington Training School for Nurses began its fourth course of lectures last evening at Marin's Hall, with a fair attendance, consisting of graduates, applicants and friends of the school. The organization of this institution in 1877 and its subsequent good work are matters with which the public is familiar. Although suffering from a lack of funds ever since its establishment, the school has been a success, and nearly all of the graduates have found steady, renumerative employment as nurses.

The lectures last evening were merely introductory, and were delivered by Dr. J. M. Toner, president; Dr. J. C. Welling and Prof. J. S. Beale.

President Toner referred to the work of the school having a suitable home in the projected National Garfield Memorial Hospital. He also paid a glowing tribute to the famous nurse, Florence Nightingale, and gave an interesting account of his meeting with her in London during the past summer. The Southern Methodist Bishops.

Of the six Sonthern Methodist bishops, only two are able to do active duty—Bishops McTyeire and Keener. Bishop Wightman is ill at Charleston. Bishop Paine, though feeble, hopes to be able to attend the Memphis Conference, which meets at Bolivar November 9. Bishop Kavanagh, who has been on the Pacific coast for nearly two years, will be present at the Denver Conferences, which meets at Denver, Col., this week. Bishop Pierce, who has been attending Western conferences, who has been attending Western conferences, who has been attending Western conferences, has gone to his home in Georgia, on account of ill-health. Bishop McTyeire is presiding at the Holston Conference, at Wytheville, Va., in the place of Bishop Wightman. The former has several very important stations to fill, on account of the death of ministers.

The Confederate Bond Mystery.
An order was received in this city yesterday for Confederate bonds to the amount of $1,000,000. It is said that the recent demand for these bonds has grown out of the circumstance that $17,000,000 in gold placed in English banks during the war to the credit of the Confederate government is still held on deposit. The United States Treasury, it is further said, has made several attempts to obtain possession of the gold, but has always failed, the English banks contending that the money could not be surrendered except to the holders of bonds issued by the Confederate government.

A Spider Draws Up a Mouse By The Tail.

A Spider Draws Up a Mouse By The Lebadom (Ky.) Standard.

A very curious and interesting spectacle was to be seen on Monday afternoon in the office of Mr. P. C. Clever's livery stable in this city. Against the wall of the room stands a tolerably tall desk, and under this a small spider, not larger than a common sea, had constructed and extensive web reaching down to the floor.

About 11:30 o'clock Monday forenoon it was observed that the spider had ensnared a young mouse by passing filaments of her mouse had its hind feet off the floor, and could barely touch the floor with its fore feet. The spider was full of business, running up and down the line, occasionally biting the mouse's tail, making it struggle to the floor. At 9 o'clock in the afternoon the mouse could barely touch the floor with its fore feet; by dark the point of its nose was an inch above was still alive, but had made no sign except when the spider descended and bit its tail, the floor.

The next morning the mouse was dead

At this time it was an inch and a half from the floor.

The next morning the mouse was dead and hung three inches from the floor.

The news of the novel sight soon became circulated, and hundreds of people visited the stable to witness it. The mouse is a small one, probably less than half grown, measuring about one and one-half inches from the point of its nose to the root of its tail. How the spider succeeded in ensnaring it is not known. The mechanical ingenuity of the spider, which enables her to raise a body which must weigh forty or fifty times as much us herself, has been the subject of much comment and speculation, and no satisfactory solution of the difficulty has been found. All agree that it is a most remarkable case, and one that would be received with utter incredulity if it were not so amply attested.

The Fate of a Practical Joker.

Paris Correspondence N. O. Picayune.

Friday night, at 2 o'clock a. m., a gentleman left his club with a friend; the latter was delayed a few moments in getting his cane, and the former, to play a joke on him, hid in the lift-case. His friend came down and seeing nobody went out in the worst possible humor. The joker, as he entered the lift-case, had closed the door, he tried to open it, but could not, for it opened without key only from the outside. He laughed heartly to see biter bit, until presently he heard a noise, which he could not misinterpret. The lift was slowly falling down from the fourth floor. He, in groping for the door, had pulled the rope which set it free. Death stared him in the face, for that immense mass of iron would inevitably crush him flat as a pancake, and by a slow torture which would make dying seem an agony of hours. He became frantic with fear. He flung himself on the door of the lift-case as only despair could do: he shrieked for help. His frenzled efforts made no impression on the door, but his shrieks reached the janitor's ears. The janitor hastened to his relief. The janitor found the unfortunate gentleman in a swoon on the floor. The former dragged the latter out. It was time. The lift was only fifteen feet from him. A physician was summond. Consciousness was restored. The unfortunate gentleman sprang on his feet, screamed incoherently with wild gestures. He was crazy.
